Cast Rehearses Play For March Presentation

Regina Giddens, played by Stephanie Pershing, will display her hard personality March 1 and 2, in the play "The Little Foxes" by Lillian Hellman, to be presented in the Main Auditorium.

The setting is in the spring of 1900, in a small Southern city. The story of conflict between a man and his wife, when their ideas and desired ends are far afield, is accentuated by the woman's two brothers. The unprincipled, money-minded Hubbards have been working the town to death. They set the Negroes against each other until they work for practically nothing.

Other cast members consist of Addie, Pat Dunham; Cal, Ken Price; Birdie Hubbard, Carolyn Enis; Oscar Hubbard, Bob Sandmaier; Leo Hubbard, Richard Gould.

Also in the cast are William Marshall, Jerry Mathews; Benjamin Hubbard, James Hurley; Alexandra Giddens Jeanne Hein; Horace Giddens, Robert Gill.

Now in the third week of rehearsal, practice is held six nights a week (all except Sunday) from 7 till 10:30.

James to Play Spring Formal

Harry James, the well-known band leader, will play for the Spring Formal Dance, March 9th.

Advance tickets will be on sale for $2.00; however tickets bought at the door will cost $3.00. The Union Board will be in charge of decorations.

When Sadie Arrives

The Hunted Turns Hunter.

On your mark—get set—go! Sadie Hawkins Week is February 26 through March 2.

Take those old track shoes out of the closet, men, and begin, warming up, for it will be too late beginning mid-night, February 25. Trees, shrubs, high curbs, fences, and even parked cars present no obstacle to that Sadie Hawkins gal.

This may be a far cry from Dogpatch, USA, but Little Abner had nothing to contend with like the whole female population of NWMSC.

Some may prefer to go barefoot. Some may prefer to wear sneakers. But what really counts, girls, is how to get to your target the quickest.

For you guys who are caught (Little Abner had to walk), your gal will pick you up, put on your coat, open the car door, treat you to dinner or a movie, and may even kiss you good night.

True, girls, the consequences of this mad rush may be sore toes and swollen feet, but such minor complications will be forgotten when you take your catch to the Sadie Hawkins Day Dance, March 2.

College Plans Career Day

The fifth annual Career Day Conference sponsored by NWMSC will be held on campus Friday afternoon, February 23.

Nodaway and Holt counties are expected to send junior and senior students to participate from the twelve or thirteen schools.

Activities will begin with an opening general assembly in the college auditorium from 12:30 to 1 p.m.

Following the assembly will be three 45-minute sessions featuring talks on more than forty various occupations and professions students may enter upon graduation from high school or college.

The event will conclude at 3 p.m.

Tina Rivas Receives Nat'l DZ Scholarship

Miss Clementina Rivas, Uruguay, South America, has received a National Sorority Scholarship for the spring semester.

This is the first time in the history of NWMSC that the Delta Zeta sorority has honored a member with such an award.

Miss Rivas, a junior, has received the award from the Mather's Club Scholarship Fund and from the Elizabeth Coulter Stephenson Fund.

Dr. Wanda Walker and Miss Louise Lovell, local sponsors, received a letter from Mrs. Marguerite W. Havens, national college chapter director, explaining that the first award was contributed by the mothers of Delta Zetas and the second by the United States collegiates and alumnae.

Miss Rivas is a Spanish major and a French minor. She came to NWMSC in 1959 on a Rotary Scholarship. She was recently elected recording secretary of her sorority for next year.

Faculty Recital Scheduled Tonight

Mr. C. Ward Rounds of the music department and his wife, Elizabeth, will present a trumpet and piano recital tonight at 8:15 p.m. in the Horace Mann Auditorium.

The program will consist of "Four Variations on a Theme by Domenico Scarlatti" by Bitsch, "Concerto for Trumpet" by Bohrnstedt, "Tocatta" by Paradies, "Six Israeli Dances" by Alexander, and "Sonata for Trumpet and Piano" by Hindemith.

Penny Night

Tonight is AWS Penny Night. Men can keep their dates out for one hour past the regular dorm hours. The cost: one penny per minute.

Arthur Fielder Conducting

Arthur Fielder and the Boston Pops Tour Orchestra will appear on campus, February 27, 8 p.m. in Lamkin gymnasium. Fielder and the BPTO, masters of light classical music, first went on the road in 1952 and are the most popular touring orchestra of its kind in North America.

APO Provides Answering Service

A phone answering service in the Bearcat Den is the most recent project of the Alpha Phi Omega.

The APO now has an office containing a loudspeaker system in the south end of the east den in the Union. If a student has a call, he will be paged throughout the den and cafeteria by the member on duty.

A member of the fraternity will be in the office from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Anyone wishing to call the office should dial JU-2-9085.

Problem Persists For Car Court

The traffic court under the direction of Mr. Luther Belcher, business manager, and Dr. Charles Koerble, dean of Students, are very concerned with the traffic problem on campus.

Regulations have been made by the court which are to be followed by anyone who drives a car on campus. The rules set by the court are in the Student Handbook and are posted.

Offenders who do not pay their fines will be brought before traffic court and will have to pay increasing fines.

A new lot across from Colbert Hall will be completed as soon as weather permits.

All who drive cars on campus are urged to co-operate with the traffic court.

Student Teaching

The deadline for the 1962 summer and fall applications for student teaching is set as May 25.

Music Background

Although Fielder inherited a rich family background of European musical culture, he confesses that he did not like music more than any other youngster.

Fielder's father, Austrian-born Emanuel Fielder, was first violinist with the Boston Symphony. To encourage young Arthur to practice his lessons, his mother would reward a good music lesson, with a trip to the local vaudeville theatre.

Old and New

Fielder's success may be largely attributed to his versatility in blending the old, the new, the serious, the semi-serious, and often the care-free mood into his musical selection. Reports reveal that Fielder and the Boston Pops enthrall all of their audiences throughout their travels with distinguishing, entertaining, style.

Fifty-eight cities of the United States will be visited by the Boston Pops as they make their tour this year. They will be on the road for nine weeks.

Mr. Peel Publishes College Studies Book

"Oh that mine enemy would write a book!"

Three sections of freshman English will be able to check on this ancient wish; their instructor has written a booklet.

Mr. D. F. Peel, English department has just published A Critical Survey of the Short Stories of O. Henry, a booklet in the Northwest Missouri State College Studies.

What Can We Do About It?

Dennis Frame

It's 1962 and we are lucky! We're young and fair and debonair and a thousand other corny expressions that can only describe today's exuberant optimistic youth.

But—if we are to maintain this optimism and exuberance and still consider ourselves lucky, we must be willing to contribute a little time and effort to fighting a threat which can destroy any and all dreams of pleasant future. This scourge is International Communism.

It's easy to yawn and close our eyes and pretend that Communism doesn't really exist. But we've done this for fifteen years and still it hovers over us, stronger and more deadly than ever. The time has come when positive action is required—not appeasement, not co-existence, not concession.

Our first action then is to keep informed. An informed, aroused public can do wonders. Newspapers serve this purpose very well. Also, information can be obtained from the Government Printing Office, the House Un-American Activities Committee, and various private groups.

Further, we can seek the truth and questions that which our minds tell us is wrong. In some cases, this means going against what we've been taught in school. Our school books and teachers are often slanted to what is called the "liberal" point of view. Now, maybe there's nothing wrong with this view except that it tends to give only one side of a question. Or else it may distort the other side to make it look ridiculous.

Some textbooks, for example, even tend to degrade America (innocently of course). They may refer to our heroes as "radicals." They may over emphasize our faults rather than our attributes. We have an obligation to speak if we don't like this.

What else can we do? A letter to our Congressman may carry more weight than one from our parents.

In addition, we can consider joining organizations dedicated to America's future. One such group is Young Americans for Freedom. There will be a chapter on our campus soon.

Of course we'd rather be spending our time doing something else—this isn't exactly fun. But we've got to crush Communism and to retain our republican form of government. It's not simple, but we'll do it.

Anybody But Me

—"I wish I could be anybody but me." The reasons coeds may echo this line from a popular song are offered by Peggy Wells in the University of Oklahoma DAILY as "a few of the major traumas in the life of today's college girl".

1. She has "nothing" to wear.
2. Long-distance-lover hasn't written for five days.
3. Her "care package" from home, including the dress for Friday night's party, doesn't come until Saturday.
4. Her date is shorter than she.
5. She gets a run in her stockings.
6. The love-of-her-life asks her to study with him, and she finds that he REALLY wants to study.
7. She breaks a fingernail.
8. Her dyed-to-match shoes don't match.
9. She's campused the night of the big party.
10. She realizes that she has accepted two dates for the same night.
11. Her date can't twist!
12. She walks all the way downstairs for a coke and finds the machine empty.
13. Her last class on Friday is at 4 o'clock.
14. She has 253 more pages to read, and her test is in an hour.
15. Someone breaks her Johnny Mathis record.
16. Her date doesn't say anything about the way she looks. (Sometimes it's better!)
17. She leaves her party favor at the party.
18. Her date comes early-late-on time. (He can't win.)
19. She drops her green beans in her lap at the date-guest-meal.
20. Her secret love calls her "good buddy!"

At this time of year when hearts are gay and bright (at night), The Stroller pauses to reflect on two of his special friends. They, Ever Rude and Mamorous Mange, have become members of the Unfortunate Few and have grown rather apart from their mutual pal, our mysterious "stroller-type friend."

Now that students have mangled their schedule cards for the final time, he pauses to reflect once more on lines. More specifically, in front of the Registrar's Office. With blue cards and yellow drop slips clutched in one little hot hand, students nervously nibble on their fingernails of the other while talking to that strange gorgeous gal just ahead. Anyway, it seems that this girl has just returned from a semester's forced vacation. (Welcome back, y'all!) At a particularly nervous moment, one guy forgets his left hand is being utilized and manages to get his advisor's signature digested. Among the other patrons of the office are our two Unfortunates. While standing in the line (after all, no one is infallible!), The Stroller chanced to hear them talking:

"What will people think of me taking Humanities II again?" Ever Rude asked. "I've been here since 1957, and I've taken that course three times, one time for each instructor—the African explorer, the disc jockey, and the swim coach."

Miss Mange's calm reply was, "They will think you really want to know all about the Middle Ages before you reach that age." Then she chuckled with her unexpected wit. Gathering all her courage, Mange offered, "You, Ever Rude, are stupid. That's the real reason why you can't be graduated."

"Maybe you're right," he mumbled as he stumbled to the head of the line. Face to face with Mrs. Fillinandsignplease, he admitted his stupidity once again. He had signed up for three ten o'clock classes. With a look of disbelief and a heavy sigh, she adjusted his mixed-up schedule so that he had eight and four o'clock classes every day. However, she left plenty of bridge-playing time in between.

Having taken care of his "business," Ever Rude said, "Come on, Mange, let's go. I feel dejected because I'm so dumb. The sight of you makes me appreciate myself because you are even dumber than me. Let's go for a walk down by the city dump. . ."

DA DA . . . Da da da da da . . . da da . . .

At last sight of them, they were strolling quietly to their romantic interlude and Rudie was quoting this tender Valentine poem to his beloved:

Valentine's Day is here . . .
It's time to show that one so dear
How much she means to you.
In snowy, windy weather and also dew.
And all that bull.

Heated Debate At Soc. Sc. Club

by Bob Johnson

Should medical care to the aged be administered by state agencies, or should it come under the federal Social Security system?

Does the Kerr-Mills bill, supported by the American Medical Association, provide a better solution to the medical care problem than the AFL-CIO's King-Anderson bill?

James Davis, vice-president of the Missouri AFL-CIO, and Dr. Robert Dunshee, Maryville physician, debated these topical issues before NWMSC students, faculty members and townspeople, Wednesday, at the meeting of the Social Science Club.

Davis, in advocating the King-Anderson measure, pointed out that including care for the aged in the federal social program would result in uniformity throughout the nation. He stated that, while such a step would meet some public disapproval, a federal plan would soon become accepted as, has the Social Security program. His argument centered on the lack of foresight among most Americans and the inability of most older citizens to pay for a private insurance program.

Dunshee explained the Kerr-Mills bill as a measure to let each state set up its own program designed for that area's specific needs. The money spent by the state would be matched by an equal amount from the national government. He pointed out that the Kerr-Mills bill would apply to many indigent old people not covered by Social Security, providing aid for "the needy not the greedy." Charging that "obstructionists" were stopping the implementation of the bill which has already been passed by Congress, Dunshee urged that individuals should take the responsibility rather than forcing the national government to institute compulsory programs for social welfare.

In the question-answer session that followed, the audience questioned both of the speakers on the details of their programs. Ranging from trite to well-thought inquiries, the questions brought out Dunshee's belief in voluntary association and individual action and Davis' realistic view that the government must provide compulsory welfare programs for an apathetic and short-sighted citizenry.

A show of hands at the end of the evening revealed a picture similar to that of the nation as a whole. The two bills split most of the votes evenly with the King-Anderson bill holding a slight advantage, 35-32. Thirteen people, however, remained undecided, holding the final decision in their hands.

Students Urged To Cooperate In Blood Bank List

Student Co-operation is the key to the NWMSC Blood Bank program.

The program consists of a working agreement between NWMSC and St. Francis Hospital. Its immediate purpose is to help supply needed blood to students of the college and people in and around Maryville. Through the kindness of individual donors, their names and blood types appear on the NWMSC blood donor list.

Recipients who wish to pay for the blood they have received may designate that the money be sent to NWMSC where it is used in the student loan program. This is an important source of money for the student loans since each dollar that is received is matched by nine more dollars in the form of federal grants by the National Defense Student Loan program. This, however, is a secondary function of the blood donor program. The primary nature of the program is humanitarian in nature.

All organizations and individuals on the campus are encouraged to participate in this good-will project by reporting to the Laboratory at St. Francis Hospital and having their blood typed free of charge. The information should then be turned over to Mr. Don Schooler's office in the J. W. Jones Union Building. Mr. Schooler is in charge of the Blood Bank in the absence of Dr. Sterling Surrey.

Last year approximately 200 students volunteered for the blood donor list; the majority of volunteers were men. Mr. Schooler states that apparently the trend of men composing the largest portion of the donor list is continuing, since two of the first groups to give their undivided support to the program last semester were the Sigma Tau Gamma and Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternities. Women as well as men are urged to support the blood donor program.

Through the years when emergencies have arisen, the blood donor list has proven its worth to various members of the student body and people of the surrounding area. Receiving blood may seem unimportant until you are the recipient. Sister Carmelita of the Laboratory at St. Francis Hospital heartily endorses the blood donor program and expresses the wish that every student at NWMSC could see the tremendous good the donor program has done.

Work Starts On Union Bldg.

Work is slated to commence today on an addition to the J. W. Jones Union Building. A combination dining room and ballroom is to be constructed at the present sun deck location.

The planned dining room will be of modern design and will contain two serving lines. In addition the entire Union Building will be air conditioned.

Due to construction work, it will be necessary for some student activities to change their meeting place.

Queen Chosen At Perrin Hall

by Gloria Eickholt

Midst the hustle and bustle of the recent Tower Queen campaign and election, a small group of Perrin Hall residents, determined not to be outdone on the political scene, banded together and came up with a contest for "Queen of the Groundhog."

The campaign was held Feb. 1, and the election was held the following day. Voters could write in the name of their preferred candidate on the ballots, and the candidate with the most votes would rule supreme.

The election results were divulged at midnight, Friday, February 2, at a ceremony resembling the Oscar Awards Program. Mrs. Irene Archibald, Perrin Hall director, much to her amazement, was revealed as the "Queen of the Groundhog."

The master of ceremonies presented Mrs. Archibald with a Regal robe of Towels pinned together, a cardboard crown with fuzzy 'groundhog' ears, and a tree-limb scepter. She was then serenaded with the Groundhog Queen song, composed especially for her majesty.

Mrs. Archibald stated, "I really had a funny feeling when they announced me as the winner. My face was red."

Not only fun ruled the celebration. A sign with a bespectacled groundhog was erected in the main hall with a small box attached. As the girls voted, they contributed money which was then turned over to the March of Dimes. "It was quite an affair," Mrs. Archibald further commented, "It was lots of fun and I hope the girls will continue it."

Who knows? Our Tower may someday have a Groundhog Queen too!

HOTCHKIN STATIONERS

Chalk Talk . . . Bob Cobb

Thus far, the MIAA title race has been a three-team affair in both the upper and lower divisions of the league. Cape Girardeau-minus Carl Ritter, Warrensburg, and Springfield are fighting it out for the top slot in that respective order, with Kirksville, NWMSC, and Rolla bringing up the rear of the pack.

Big Offense

High-scoring Cape Girardeau paced by Bill Giessing, who owns a 26.7 point mark, leads the conference in points-per-game average, clipping along at 78.05 tallies a game. The Bearcats still maintain the league's best defensive mark by holding the opposition to 64.71 scores per encounter, but, sad to say, the 'Cats are in the cellar among loop scoring leaders, only mustering an average of 60.6 tallies in 17 games.

The Bearcats, sadly lacking in offensive punch and bench strength, are struggling to stay away from the MIAA basement currently controlled by the Rolla Miners. Needing wins in the final outings to capture the league's fourth position, Moss's proteges will be seeking revenge against Springfield and Kirksville in the last two Lamkin encounters this season.

Should the 'Cats emerge victorious in these closing contests, they should pretty well sew up the number four slot in the MIAA.

The Springfield Bears headed by All-Leaguer, Carl Wilks, and a newcomer named Marshall will face Meznarich, Drake and Co. here February 19.

The Bearcats will be after the Kirksville Bulldogs on the local court, February 24, in what should be a rip-roaring seesaw match with both teams out for plenty of opposing-team blood.

Coach Jordan

Still on the subject of basketball, we would like to congratulate former Bearcat and MIAA All-Star, Gene Jordan, upon the fine showing of his King City High School WildKats. The former scoring-champ turned mentor has kept the WildKats on top of the heap in the tough Grand River Conference for the entire span of this cage season.

'Cats Go Cold, Lose to Bears

Northwest State College cagers went cold in the first half Saturday night at Springfield and lost to the Bears, 42-65, in the first of a 2-game road trip in MIAA play. The Bearcats played the Mules at Warrensburg Monday.

burg Monday.

The Bears, who remain in contention for the MIAA crown, hit a hot 48 per cent from the field in the first 20 minutes, compared to Maryville's cold 18 per cent effort, for a 40-14 halftime edge.

Marshall topped the Bears' attack with 15 points, while Nick Neira meshed 14 points for the Maryville crew.

Springfield is now 5-2 and Maryville is 2-5 in loop play. SPRINGFIELD (65) — Hall 1-7-2, Wilks 2-1-1, McCarter 1-2-2, Matthews 4-0-2, Marshall 7-1-3, Kingsburg 1-0-0, White 0-0-02, Coambes 4-0-1, McDaniel 3-0-1, Rivers 1-2-1, Lorton 2-0-0. Totals 26-13-15.

MARYVILLE (42) — Drake 1-5-4, Meznarich 5-0-4, Lizzo 1-0-0, Neira 6-2-3, Miller 2-2-1, Beck 1-0-0, Ogden 0-1-2. Totals 16-10-14.

Halftime: Springfield 40-14.

Bearcat Swimmers Post No. 6

For the second time in a week, Northwest State College swimmers defeated Creighton University of Omaha by a 53-42 score. The meet was held in Omaha Saturday.

Northwest State, with a 6-win, 1-loss season, has scored 385 points to their opponents' 277.

The next meet will be at the College Pool at 2:30 p.m. Saturday when Maryville meets Central Missouri State of Warrensburg for the second time this season. Officials will be Jack Lasley, referee; Burton Richey, starter; Bill McCoy; chief timer; Floyd Barrows, scorer.

High scorers were Ed Atkins, 10; Dave Ettelson and Gary Folland, 8 each; Jim McCoy, 6.

NWMSC to Host Mat Tourney

Northwest Missouri State will play host to the annual Missouri Valley AAU Wrestling Tournament March 2 and 3, according to wrestling coach, H. D. Peterson.

Big Turn Out

Peterson expects at least 75 to 100 grapplers in the event which will include all of Missouri west of Columbia, and the entirety of Kansas.

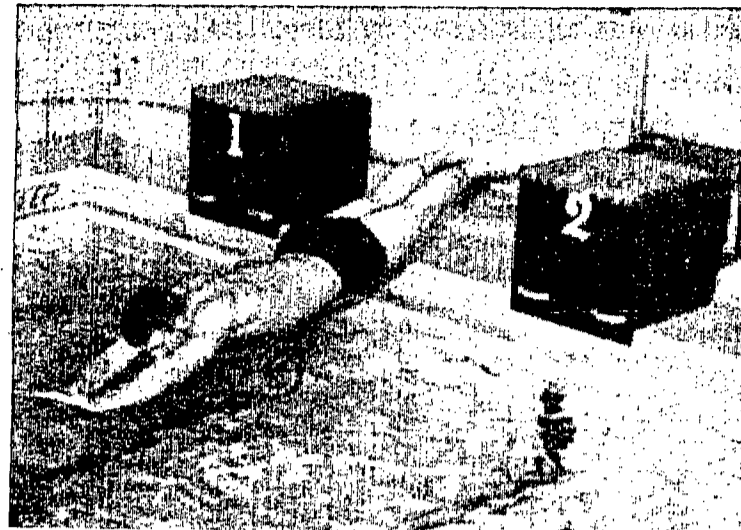

The two-day meet will be governed by the NCAA wrestling rules and will include college wrestlers and high school matters who have finished their regular schedule for the season.

Awards

Awards galore will be presented to the various winners. Trophies will be given to the highest ranking three teams. A prize for the Outstanding Wrestler is one of the highlights of the affair.

Last season Dave Moore of NWMSC garnered this award at the AAU Tourney held in Kansas City. Incidentally, the Bearcat Grapplers took second in last year's tournament.

Late Pin Beats 'Cats At Lincoln

A pin in the final match erased a 12-9 NWMSC lead and sent the Bearcat grapplers to a 12-14 defeat at the hands of Nebraska University, Tuesday night in Lincoln.

Jim Raschke, Nebraska heavyweight, pinned 'Cat freshman Glenn Acksel with one second left in the second period of their match to give the Cornhuskers the victory.

The Bearcats had won four of the seven matches prior to the heavyweight contest.

For the season the 'Cat matsters are 9-2. Nebraska is 5-1 for the year.

The NWMSC swimming squad routed the visiting team from Creighton University of Omaha, Nebraska, 73-22, here at the college pool Saturday afternoon, February 3.

The Bearcat frogmen showed power and depth as they won nine first-places and seven second-places against a first-year team.

The Maryville squad is now in its second year as a full-fledged varsity team and sport an excellent 5-1 record this season. Saturday, the aqua-men journeyed to Omaha, Nebraska, for a return meet with Creighton University. The final home-meet will be Saturday, February 17, against Warrensburg.
